I was escorted to the sidewalk of the Casino located downtown Buffalo. I advised officers that I was waiting on the person I had arrived with to come out the officer's told me I couldn't wait and started to push and shove me. I said that the side walk was public property and that I was a disabled veteran I have no criminal history and i ~~was~~ was just waiting for my friend who drove us to the casino to come out. Officer's kept pushing I told them that I was in fear that they were going to do something to me and they did not have to push me. After I told them i felt worried for my safty because they are protected by the badge I was not under arrest nor in ~~jeopardy~~ direct threat of being arrested. I was chased to the middle of the street and tackled thats when two of the officers together broke my arm. It was

A Compound fracture bones came out my skin. After they broke my arm and seen how bad it was the officer's still hand cuffed me. Since then I have had nothing but pain in my arm. The medical records will show the severity of the compound break and that the officer's said that I was resisting arrest but at no point did i resist. I have called to get the record from city court they tell me that there is no record of it. My medical records will show different. I got a trespassing charge from it and I believe they are trying to cover it up by not giving me the paper work for the incident. The officer's admit in the report they broke my arm just not how they broke it. They intentionally put their flashlight across my arm and broke it they two officer's even bragged about it as i sat in the hospital. I will send my medical records once this is recieved
